

Isenberg

(Continued from Page One) other business connections include: past deputy real estate commissioner for the State of California and also, executive secretary for the Southwest Branch Realty Board through 1945.

Isenberg is of Pennsylvania Dutch background, a member of the Presbyterian Church and holds membership in the Optimist Club.

Prior to his present job the new executive secretary was active in industrial and residential development, he revealed.

FORMER JUDGE His father is a former Judge, an ex-president of the Glendora Bank, and has been connected with the bank and land mortgage business.

"We have a good man in Isenberg," said President Plombert. "He brings youth and integrity as evidenced by his past activity. This should bring unity and prosperity to our organization."

Plombert also pointed out that Isenberg's entire salary will be financed by dues collected from the membership. He said that the money the City allocates will be used solely for promoting the welfare of the community.

Choice for the executive secretaryship rested between Isenberg and N. R. Garland. They were selected after having been screened from a group of at least 30 applicants, President Plombert pointed out.

Furnaces

(Continued from Page One) no information as to what type of settlement the International Steelworkers Union had made with management, but we feel that it was satisfactory.

Union officials said that they did not know whether the two fired men would be among those returning to work.

"We know Don Baker won't be there," said McNally, "he's in the Navy. Even so, we have to protect his interest."

Both sides said that they were jubilant that the work stoppage was over.
